

Arriving on Time

To arrive on time means to be at a specific place at a specific time. It is important to arrive on time for many reasons:

It is a requirement for school and jobs.

It shows that I have respect for teachers, peers, and supervisors.

It shows that I am a responsible and dependable adult.

It is keeping a promise.

Being late to a specific place could cause many problems. At school, being late might cause me to miss important things that I need to learn. I could get after school detention if I am late to class.

On a job, being late might mean being fussed at by my boss, losing pay, or even being fired.

I will always try to arrive on time for classes, jobs, appointments, and social activities with friends. This will show that I am a responsible student, worker, and friend.
