

KEYPOINTS: Following Up By Email

When you contact a potential employer by email, here are the points to include:

First, thank them again for giving you the opportunity to interview.

Express your interest in the job.

Politely ask when they might make a decision about who they are going to hire for the position.

Thank them again for their time.